LOCAL POINT-OF-SALE SOFTWARE COMPANY OPENS DEALERSHIP IN THE PITTSBURGH AREA

BUTLER, PA, MARCH 26, 2008: When local software developer John Giles started writing Future POS over 14 years ago, nobody would have guessed that in a short time, Future POS would become one of the best point-of-sale solutions in the hospitality market or that Future POS would be placed in some of the finest restaurants in the world. From Restaurants in China to the 6 Pack Grill in Butler, PA, Future POS is everywhere.

Mr. Giles and his team at Cutting Edge Solutions focus on being innovators in the hospitality industry in order to provide a fast and stable product complete with every feature a restaurateur would need. Future POS was the first point-of-sale system to interface with Digital Persona's UareU fingerprint Recognition sensor. Additionally, the development team at Cutting Edge Solutions has been at the forefront of facial recognition, web camera integration, and online ordering. Because of the quality of the software and its ability to be completely customizable, Future POS can be found everywhere from the Fat Duck and Cipriani's in London, to Webster Hall in New York, as well as local restaurants such as the Springfield Grille, Tambellini's, and Buffalo Blues.

This year marks another important milestone for Future POS as Future POS of Pennsylvania, a local company dedicated to providing the best service and support to Future POS customers in the western PA area, celebrates its 1 year anniversary. Future POS of PA, a subsidiary of Cutting Edge Solutions, is also based in Butler, PA and serves businesses from Erie County to West Virginia. The fact that Cutting Edge Solutions and Future POS of Pennsylvania are so closely integrated results in unparalleled local service and support for the only hospitality software founded and headquartered in Pennsylvania.

Future POS of Pennsylvania is dedicated to providing service to the Pittsburgh area and shares the same commitment to quality, innovation, and customer care that Cutting Edge Solutions was founded on.
